

Bed bugs are more common than most people think. Libraries are a common place for them to be transported because they are public buildings, have high mobility, and offer items to be taken into homes and returned.

If you find or suspect bed bugs:

- Remain calm
- Determine extent of infestation
- Consider treatment options
- Train staff to be proactive
- Consider canine maintenance checks

Why choose a Canine?

- A trained canine is the only technique that can detect all stages of life (eggs, nymphs, and adults) by scent. This means you can address the problem before you have an infestation.
- Accuracy: A trained canine identifies bed bugs by scent, which is much more accurate than human eyesight.
- Peace of mind: Proactive checks can assure your patrons and staff you are addressing affected areas or that you are bed bug free.
- Our trained canines are extremely fast and efficient. Generally an entire library (book stacks, public seating, and staff work areas) can be checked in one day.
- Limited disruption: Our canine team is discrete. We don't need to rip up carpet, remove baseboards, or dismantle furniture.
- Cost Effective: Use of a canine allows you to treat only the affected areas rather than the entire library.

Why choose us?

- We will treat you with dignity and respect your privacy. We will not discuss results of inspection with anyone not directly involved.
- Use of a certified canine/trainer team. We train daily with our dogs, who are part of our family.
- We are an independent bed bug locator service. Our only motive is to help you find bed bugs and prevent further infestation. You are free to make treatment decisions.
- We are family-owned and competitively priced without the overhead of large pest-control company owned canines.
